Hello, world!

I am a file hosted on SPARK, a simple web server developed by John Baker.

Uploading to me is easy— it's just like adding a file to Google Drive.

Want to update this file with a newer version? Just name it the same as the existing file.

I can replace 2HC Drive functionality. That way, all "live" files are on a separate platform, thus reducing the risk of accidental deletion or publication via Google Drive.

Using me instead of the main webserver reduces turnaround time, which can be valuable if you need to correct an error on a live document.
